

Sympathetic Vibratory Physics

The Science, History, Philosophy, Theory and Application of Sound & Vibration

In 1874 John Worrell Keely, together with businessmen of Philadelphia, founded the Keely Motor Company. The company was to fund the research, construction, manufacture and marketing of the Keely Motor, a motor designed on the principles of vibration and latent forces released during cavitation (implosion) of water. Keely went on to investigate and develop other sources of energy we have yet to comprehend even after 100 years of research. Blavatsky and Steiner concurred Keely's work will be the science of the future. Their future is our NOW!!!

Perhaps Keely's is one of the most enigmatic stories in the history of modern invention, we are given glimpses into the infinity of the universe revealed through his work. In light of recent scientific developments in the fields of ultrasonics, acoustic levitation and quantum acoustic physics, it becomes more and more obvious that Keely was right and his peers unable and unwilling to let go of false scientific "principles" thus enabling them to grasp the scientific truths he ardently strove to give them. We are now beginning to understand and apply some of his discoveries.

What are vibrations? What laws govern them? How can we use them? These are a few of the questions we are answering in this science. The subject is vast and touches upon every aspect of life. The air we breathe, the food we

"The sympathetic vibratory force discovered by Keely will be quite sufficient to make him the greatest discoverer of this age."

H. P. Blavatsky, The Secret Doctrine, 1888

"Mr. Keely has demonstrated he has discovered a vibratory force previously unknown to science... which, when applied to machinery, must supersede all ordinary appliances."

Professor Joseph Leidy, MD, 1890

eat, the power we consume in our homes and cars are all the result of vibrating energy forms. The laws that govern one form govern them all.

"Having witnessed Keely's experiments in sympathetic vibration, I am satisfied he has made new and important demonstrations of natural forces not explained by known physical laws."

Dr. James M. Wilcox, PhD, 1890

"The science of the future will be based on Sympathetic Vibrations."

Rudolph Steiner, 1913

.. if Keely were to die tomorrow, it might be a hundred years before another mind would arise able to complete his work;"

Rev. Albert Plum, circa 1894
